Radio Turunç: Live at Break Time

Elif's school radio show · Antalya

Good morning, everyone! This is Radio Turunç, and I'm Elif from 6-B. It's twenty to eleven on Wednesday, and it's break time. I'm standing in the schoolyard with my microphone. Let's see what everyone is doing!

Look at the football pitch! The sixth graders are playing a match against the seventh graders. Maya is running with the ball … and she's scoring! The fans are cheering and clapping. Maya usually scores in every match – she's our star!

Under the big palm tree, Kerem is sitting on a bench. He isn't playing football today. He's reading a book about robots and eating an apple. Kerem, are you enjoying your book? He's nodding. Yes, he is!

Near the school garden, two fifth graders are watering the flowers. They're doing it very carefully. Good job! And next to the door, Mrs Demir is talking to Mr Aydın, our PE teacher. They're laughing. Maybe they're planning the sports day?

Oh, wait! Can you hear the bell? It's ringing! Everyone is running back to the classrooms. Break time is over. This is Elif from Radio Turunç. See you tomorrow!

Dad's Classroom in Konya

Dad's email to Elif · Konya

Hi Elif,

Greetings from Konya! I'm writing this email quickly because my teachers are busy with a task. As you know, I usually give my AI lessons online. Every Monday and Wednesday, I sit at my desk at home, turn on my laptop and talk to teachers from all over Türkiye. But this week is different. This week I'm teaching in a real classroom!

There are thirty teachers in my class. Most of them teach at secondary schools. Right now, they're working in groups. Each group is making a short quiz with an AI tool. One group is writing questions about the planets, and another group is preparing a quiz about healthy food. Ms Ayşe, a maths teacher, is writing everything in her little green notebook. She always takes notes – just like you!

Our lessons normally start at nine o'clock and finish at four. At lunchtime, we usually walk to a small restaurant near the Mevlana Museum and eat etli ekmek – a long, thin bread with meat. Today, though, we're eating in the classroom because it's raining heavily.

What about you? Are you revising for your English quiz? Give Pamuk a hug from me.

Love, Dad

Hi Dad,

Thanks for your email! Yes, I ~~revise~~ am revising [0] for my English quiz right now. Maya is here too. She sits on my bed, and she's testing me on question tags. We usually studies together on Wednesdays, but today is Saturday, so we have more time. Emre plays basketball in the garden at the moment, and Mustafa is drawing a robot for you. He always asks about you! Every evening Pamuk is sleeping on your chair. She misses you! Are your teachers enjoy the AI lessons?

Love, Elif

Maya: Kerem, look! This is your[1] notebook, isn't it?

Kerem: Yes, it is! Thank you, Maya. I always lose my things, don't I?

Maya: Yes, you do! And you don't have your pencil case today, do you?

Kerem: No, I don't. Oh no!

Elif: OK, team. Our[2] quiz is on Friday, isn't it?

Maya: Yes, it's on the eighteenth of December. Mrs Demir is giving it in the first lesson.

Kerem: We're revising the Present Continuous today, aren't we?

Elif: That's right. Let's work in pairs. Kerem, you ask the questions, and Maya and I answer.

Kerem: OK. Maya, you walk to school with Elif every day, don't you?

Maya: Yes, we do. Our[3] houses are in the same street.

Kerem: And Elif, your brother Emre plays basketball, doesn't he?

Elif: Yes, he does. His[4] team trains on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Kerem: The fifth graders aren't using the library today, are they?

Elif: No, they aren't. Their[5] class is on a trip.

Maya: My cousin Ece is in that class. Her[6] class is at the science centre today.

Mrs Demir comes in.

Mrs Demir: Hello, detectives! You're working very hard, aren't you?

Meet 6-B!

by Elif · Turunç Lower Secondary School magazine

Hello, readers! Today I ~~write~~ am writing[0] about my class, 6-B. Our school has four hundred and twenty students, and 6-B is a very happy class – you can see that, can't you? Our classroom is on the two floor, next to the library. There are twenty-eight students in our class, and our teacher is Mrs Demir.

Every morning, Mrs Demir is giving us a short task. We usually works in pairs or in groups, and we sometimes mime new words. Kerem tells a joke every day. Our lessons are never boring!

Look at our photo! Today is a special day. We wear our best clothes, and we are all smiling for the school magazine. Mrs Demir is standing in the middle. Maya waves at everyone, isn't she? At the moment, Kerem laughs at his own joke. Can and Deniz are new students. They desks are next to the window. Can and Deniz aren't shy, aren't they?

Our class has a small library, too. It's books are about science, art and robots. Our English quiz is on the eighteen of December. Wish us luck!
